The Washington Quarter Midget Club (WQMA) is the first club formed in the great state of Washington, hence its name. It enjoyed many years of racing at a facility that was inside the perimeter fence of Paine Field, a county owned major airport that, among much industry, is the home of the Boeing 747 plant. The events of 9/11 caused the county to increase its pressure on our club to relocate as our presence was in conflict with proper security measures. We eventually secured agreements to relocate to our present location and that began a long and arduous journey into permitting, design, and construction of the facility you see today. We are very proud of what our members and donors have built with hard work, long hours and much personal sacrifice. We have been told by some that have raced in many places that our track is the nicest they have ever visited. During the summer of 2009, our members voted to host a Western Grands race. It is our first such venture as our previous location did not have enough space for parking, etc. We are eager to host all of the families and share our wonderful facility with you.

Our members are at your disposal for tending to your needs and concerns. Please feel free to contact any of them if you need Assistance, we will do our best to help. We will all have varied degrees of success on the track, but most importantly we will look back on this event as the time we made many new friends in the QMA community. Please have a wonderful stay in our great state and at our wonderful facility, thanks to each and every one of you for your commitment to be a part of the 2011 Western Grands.

WQMA would like to thank Tanner by Mittle in association with 456 Racing for being our major sponsor for the event.
